1 If absolutely everything—red wine, spicy food, public speaking—makes your face break out in patches, use new Prescriptives Redness Relief Gel to neutralize that tomato effect almost immediately, $50, www.prescriptives.com.

2 Gently cleansing SweetSpot Labs On-the-Go Wipettes are just the right pH, so they won't irritate anywhere, including down there, $16, 877-SWEET-SPOT.

3 Eye-makeup removers usually sting like hell. Switch to YSL Instant Pur Instant Eye Make-Up Remover, which also conditions lashes, $24, 800-7-BEAUTY.

4 Even cowgirls get razor burn. Or something. The BIC Soleil razor's aloe-infused strip fixes all that, $5 for four, drugstores.

5 The best: Chanel Précision Soothing Toner is more calming than stripping, thanks to aloe and other happy-skin stuff, $35, www.gloss.com.

6 The only thing better than a thick-as-icing moisturizer is one that's also loaded with healing spring water, like Avène Body Lotion, $20, CVS.

7 The gorgeousness of Lancôme Soleil Hydra Flash Bronzer's subtle, gradual tan is hard to describe, $35, www.lancome.com.

8 While it won't help with redness, using GiGi Anesthetic Numbing Spray before waxing helps with the pain, $12, Sally Beauty Supply stores.

9 Most deep cleansers might as well be dominatrices named Mistress Renée. Get the gunk out with Shiseido Pureness Pore Minimizing Cooling Essence instead, $25, department stores.
